NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 13, 1876. Evidently the best of the pole sport was reserved until the last of the season; and this afternoon nine spirited games were played, and the tenth was well pderway, when it was called, the rules governing the play being those of the Hurlingham club. It was a atch game, and the sides making the most goals in an hour and fifteen minutes were to be the winners. The ladies of Newport, having enjoyed polo during the season, were determined to show their appreciathe enterprise of the Westchester Polo Club in introducing the manly sport with so much success, and so they ordered from buttons emblematical of polo and offered them as prizes to each of the players composing the winning little interest manifested to see the contest.

A large number of spectators were present, including the Austrian Minister, Count Hoyos, wife; and the Spantah Minister Mr Antonio Mantilla de Los Ries. There were upward of 100 carriages on the ground, and their occupants remained until the close of the games and took a deep interest in the sport.

The members of the polo club and everybody else were delighted to see Mr. William Douglass on the ground for the first time since he was hurt. He was congratulated, and all regretted that he was not able to mount his pony and assist in the games.

The sides were divided as follows:-

Rads.—C. H. Ridgeway, Captain; Messrs. Augustus Jay, S. Rowland Robbios, Fairman Rogers and George R. Fearing.
BLUSS.—James Gordon Bennett, Captain; Messrs. F. Griswold, George W. Thorne, W. A. Wadaworth and Richard Peters.

Mr. Harry Oelrichs was chosen umpire, which was unfortunate for him, he being of the opinion that he was to play, and that too on what proved to be the winning side. This was brought about by the non-appearance of Mr. Hollis Hunnewell, who was to play with the reds, hence it was necessary to take off one man from the opposite side and leaving one of the prizes without

The playing commenced at six minutes past five o'clock, and the first goal stroke was made by Mr. Peters, who knocked the ball out of bounds on the east of the lot. It was no sooner in again the blues got it near their goal. was right in front of the ponies were all in a heap, se ball was soon knocked back and out of bounds again by the reds, and after another knock out the blues got it again in front of the goal, when the reds, ttroke, after which Mr. Griswold got possession of it, and after striking it several times sent it back to itsold and after striking it several times sent it back to usedd position, where Mr. Robbins, who was keeping goal, stopped it from going through, and thus saved for a few moments the inevitable defeat of the reds. Mr. Ridgway followed up the advantage gained by naving Mr. Robbins in front of the goal, and he was followed by Mr. Jay, while the latter was playing well, and knocked ine bait to the goal again, when it was again knocked out of bounds by the reds to save defeat. After it was thrown in Mr. Graweld played remarkably well, and in less than a minute after the last knock out the blues captured the goal and won the first game. Time, 8m.

Mr. Jay, while the latter was playing well, and knocked out of bounds by the reds to save defeat. After it was thrown in Mr. Griswoid played remarkably well, and knocked out of bounds by the reds to save defeat. After it was thrown in Mr. Griswoid played remarkably well, and knocked out of bounds by the reds to save defeat. After it was thrown in Mr. Griswoid played remarkably well, and fines than a minute after the last knock out the blues captured the goal and won the first game. Time, 8m.

PECCING GAME.

The second game followed as quickly as the reds towid reach the opposite goal, and after the ball was thrown into the centre of the lot Mr. Jay made the first good stroke, and immediately afterward one of the billes struck it three times in succession, followed by all the rest of the players, the the tail to a comet. The ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent if directly in 1701 of the ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent if directly in 1701 of the ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent if directly in 1701 of the ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent if directly in 1701 of the ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent if directly in 1701 of the ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent if directly in 1701 of the ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent if directly in 1701 of the ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent if directly in 1701 of the ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent if directly in 1701 of the ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent if directly in 1701 of the ball was now going toward broken' goal, when Mr. Griswoid sent in 1702 of the second horse. This was the shown of the ball was now going toward broken' goal in going in the policy will be proved to the policy will be lead.

The hold and the black were all in a beap. A knook ont followed, after which the reds

SISTH GAME.

The sixth game gave promise of being an interesting one. Mr. Jay was the first to make an effective stroke, and the second time he struck the ball he "litted" it and sent it with great force over the hends of the occupants of the carriages near the goal of the reds, and he was accordingly applianded. Of course it was sent out of bounds, and after it was thrown in he gave it a good back stroke and victory seemed about to perch on the banners of the reds. With the timely assistance of Messrs. Rogers, Fearing and Robbins, Mr. Jay sent the ball between the pennants, and the reds were able to score their first victory. Time, 3m.

Swearm case.

The seventh game was quickly in progress and the eds were highly clated at their victory. They were nations for the commencement of the sport and receatedly sung out "Play!" but they do not start until he unpite said the word. Two of the reds missed the of no use, and the reds scored their second and last game. Time, 5m.

Eighth Gams.

The reds were now pretty well warmed up, and they were determined to improve the few remaining minutes of the hour and a quarter. They cried out "Play!" before the blues had got, half way across the lot on their way to the goal, but the umpire had no authority to toss the bail until all were in their proper places. Messrs, Ridgway and Griswold charged. The latter got at the ball first, and he dealt it two knocks which were very effective. Mr. Thorne, of the blues, also made a good point, and the ball was now in the northwest corner of the lot, near the reds' goal. One of the blues got it away and sent it with lightning speed along the western boundary line. Mr. Peters was also on the alert, and he sent the ball to the southeast corner, near his goal, where a knock out took place. Mr. Ridgway got a knock at it the first, after it was tossed in, and he was followed by Mr. Peters who struck it with great force. Mr. Robbins here made an excellent hack stroke, but nevertheless the ball was kept near the blues' goal, and victory was again with the blues. Time, 5 m.

the bines' goal, and victory was again with the bines. Time, 5 m

NINTS GAME.

The ninth game followed and it was noticed so great was the interest in the context that several of the appectators had left their carriages in order to get a better view of the playing. It was nearly dark, yet no disposition was shown to leave the ground. Mesara Griswold and Ridgway again charged, and as usual the laster was the first to get the ball, and he sent it near his goal, but Mr. Tharne was on hand to send it back. The latter was followed by Mr. Peters, who appeared to be everywhere and who played to good advantage for the bines. Mr. Rogers gave it a knock and sent it to the west side of the lot, but the blues, with the timely sid of Mr. Peters, who undoubtedly was the principal cause of the blues' success, won the game. Time, 2m.

TENTI GAME.

The tenth and last game fellowed, but there is no doubt but what the allotted time was up before its commencement. Messrs. Thorne and Ridgway charged, the former paying his respects to the ball first, instead of Mr. Ridgway. Some excellent strokes. Peters and Ridgway made some excellent strokes. The ball was soon near the blues goal, and while it was in the northwest corner of the lot the umpire "called" the game and declared the blues the winners; and thus ended the most brilliant series of pologames ever played here, and the ladies will be able to worthly bestow their gins. The reds have no reason to feel ashamed of their lack of success, for they played well; but they doubtless will call to mind the result of Saturday's games, and it is reasonable to suppose that the blues would not care to allow a repetition of that day's sport.

There is to be another game of lacrosse on Friday afternoon.

Each foot of the rope weighs almost eight pounds, the whole being one and three-quarter inches to diameter and 3,710 feet in length. It is composed of its strand, each strand containing eighteen wires, making a total of 108 wires in the rope. As soon as this mass was placed in proper position for unrecling a manula rope, lour and one-half inches round, was lowered
over the top of the tower to the scow on the west side, and upon the east side was attached to a durmy engine. The ends of the wire and manula rope were recurely fastened by a clamp, and the work of hoisting began. The manula rope ran over a series of pulleys at the top of the tower, and two men with crowbars regulated the drawing of the wire from the reel. In a short time the carrier wire had reached the top of the tower, where it ran over three pulleys and was attached by a biock to one of the travellers. The end of it was then made fast to another manula rope
two and one-half inches in diameter, which reached over to the Brooklyn anchorage. What the mechanics call a "beght" was then obtained; in other words, the carrier was made to sac to the ground on the east side of the tower, while its ein still remnined fastened to the traveller above. This was accomplished by means of a large rope dropped over the wire and attached to the dummy engine.

Twenty five pounds of steam were required to pull down the carrier. Having done this the engine at the Brooklyn anchorage was called into play. All along the course of the wire, from the tower to the anchorage, men were stationed upon the housetops to guide the passage of the carrier rope as it dragged slowly along.
The principal station point was on the top of the Falton stores building, a live story warehouse, on the corner of Water and Dock streets. It formed the intermediate point from which both ends of the work could be observed. The signal was passed along when all was

NEW YORK AND LONG ISLAND BRIDGE COMPANY.

ELECTION OF A BOARD OF DIRECTORS-PLANS AND IMPROVEMENTS. Yesterday a meeting was held at the office of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, No. 108 Broadway, of the New York and Long Island Bridge Company, for an election of directors to serve the ensuing year The following gentlemen were chosen by the stockholders:-William Steinway, Herman C. Poppen husen, O. Zollikoffer, John T. Conover, R. M. C. Graham, Pliny Freeman, Charles A. Trowbridge, Oswald Ottendorfer, Edward J. Woolsey, Gotleibb Gunther, Herman Funcke, Edwin Ernstein, Abraham D. Ditmars, Willy Wallach, C. Godfrey Guntner, Charles F. Tretbar, Charles H. Rogers, John C. Jack-son, Thomas Rainey, Archibald M. Bliss and Herman Charles F. Trotbar, Charles H. Rogers, John C. Jackson, Thomas Rainey, Archibald M. Bliss and Herman T. Livingston. The teliers and inspectors of election were George W. Gilbert, John Sickels and S. J. Young. According to a resolution which was adopted at the last meeting this company agree to receive plans for the erection of their bridge across the East River up to December 1, and a committee of competent engineers are to award the prize money to the successful competitors, as follows:—For the best plan, $1,000 to the second best in the estimation of the Board, $500, and for the third $250. There have been many excellent plans already submitted to the committee, which consists of Generals Gillman and Baraard and Mr. Chanute, civil engineer of the Eric Raifroad Company. The plan now on exhibition at the company's office is the work of Captain W. P. Trowbridge, United States Adjutant General of Connecticut, and contemplates the erection of piets on the New York shore, blackwell's Island and at Long Island City; the readway to be sustained by iron girders, and the whole work being one of greent strength and beauty. According to this engineer's design, the span of the east channel would be 600 feet, and that of the west channel 700 feet in length. The height of the bridge at centre is fixed by act of Congress at 135 feet above high water mark, so as to place no obstruction in the channel to passing vesseis. One of the officers of the company stated to a Heraalin reporter yesterday that the work would be commenced almost immediately, and perhaps would be finished before the lower bridge on the East River; in fact, two years would suffice on the East River; in fact, two years would suffice on the East River; in fact, two years would suffice on the East River; in fact, two years would suffice on the East River; in fact, two years would suffice on the East River; in fact, two years would suffice on the East River; in fact, two years would suffice on the East River; in fact, two years would suffice on the East River;

prought by a wife against her husband for the recovery of moneys had and received by him on her account. It laws have almost if not altogether divorced the civil recognized in this State, and an instance of it was presented in the Marine Court before Judge Sheridan and nie E. Kircuer and Charles Kircher, and the amount sought to be recovered by the wife was $145 32, which rent of her individual property, and refused to pay that until recently, and during a period of twenty-six that until recently, and during a period of twenty-six years, plaintill and defendant had lived together as huzband and wife, having a number of grown up children living. During this period of their married life the husband, who was in the real estate business, had purchased in the name of his wife various pleces of property values at about $100,000. This property, the husband claims, was all purchased with money coming directly or indirectly from him, while the wife claims a portion of it, including that from which the rents in dispute in the present sait were derived, was purchased with her individual money, and the remainder a git. But always since its purchase all of the property was managed by the husband, he paying expenses of repairs, &c., and collecting the rents. A short time since in making a trade of property on States Island the party with whom he traded made a claim against him for damages for misrepresentations concerning the property traded, and an order of arrest was granted against him by the Court. His wife then gave too necessary bail, but more recently took a notion to surrender him and separate from him. This unnatural surrender, the husband claims, was brought about by his wife taking a fancy for another man, and this fancy leading to the beief that it she surrendered her old and legitimate love and the bolts of Ludiow Street Jail were once shot behind him he would be unable to procure bail in the sum of nearly $3,000, as required, and she would be left to enjoy unquestioned all the property and her new and illegitimate love. Once having got him in jail, he says, she procured a false key to his escribire, and learning from his bank book there that he had the money in suit to his credit, she desired to secure that also, so that he might not even have enough to lee a lawyer to attempt his liberation. She, of course, denies this theory, asserts that the money was hers, and, to use her own language, "If mine husband there meeting his wife leaning on the same of his alleged rival. FALSELY ACCUSED. Elizabeth Geich demanded $1,000 damages from Philip Martin, for having falsely accused and caused her arrest, in a suit tried before Judge Sheridan and a jury in the Marine Court yesterday. The story of 1874, she was servant in a baker's establishment on Eight avenue in this city, in which the defendant worked and slept. On the charge that she had stolen $50 from the pocket of his clothes in his room he had her arrested and imprisoned for several days until she was discharged upon the failure of the Grand Jury to find an indictment against her. She absolutely denied having taken the money, and it was intimated by her comusel that the defendant knew she had money, and he followed her as she went to the bank to deposit it, and claimed $50 of it as having been taken from him. The defendant's story was that he had the money, lost it, suspected the plaintift, and seing her going to the hank followed her, and raw her deposit bills of a denomination similar to those stolen from him. As to his having had the money, defendant was corroborated by another witness. The jury gave plaintiff $250 damages. 1874, she was servant in a baker's establishment on business and the preparation of cases for the next term of the Circuit Court, which will begin on the second Wednesday in October. A large number of cases are ready for the Grand Jury, the principal ones cases are ready for the Grand Jury, the principal ones being evasion of the payment of the special tax by retail iquor dealers and cigar manufacturers. The most important case is that of Captain J. S. Grindle, master of the lost ship Saint stark, who was oxamined before Commissioner Shields on a charge of cruel and unusual punishment. The defendant waived examination when the government rested, and the case will now come before the Grand Jury, the charge being murder. The next case of importance is that of Foster Black, a dry goods importer, of Church street, who was arrested on a charge of undervailing an invoice of importance is that of Foster Black, a dry goods importer, of Church street, who was arrested on a charge of undervailing an invoice of imported linens. The defendant in this case endeavored to have she case kept from the Grand Jury, asking for an examination, in which he proposed to show by the witnesses for the government that the charge was manufactured by a discharged employe. The case, however, will, no doubt, go before the Grand Jury, Another case is that of William H. Dekay, charged with mailing a scurrious postal card, and there are a number of cases against alleged counterienters.

A MUCH-LIBELLED STEAMER.

About a month since the steamer Nellie Martin, becouring to the Star Ball line of steamers, plying, be-Berwind, White & Co. for a bill of $16,500 due for coal furnished for her use. Following this first libel came Newcome on a charge of passing counterfest money. The complainant is Mrs. Jane Thorn, who keeps a bakery at No. 425 Sixth avenue, and who states that O'Brien, with whom she is slightly acquainted, went into her store, and, handing her a five-dollar bill which into ber store, and, handing her a five-dollar bill which was doubled across, asked for change. Small bills were given to O'Brien and he lett the store. Mrs. Thora then examined the bill, which was on the First National Bank of Northampton, Mass., and found written across it in red tak the word "counterfeit." She arterward necessed O'Brien of passing the bill, and he said that it had been given to him by his employer. Mr. Wright, to get change, and that he had not looked at it. Mr. Wright denied O'Brien's statement, and insulated that Mrs. Thorn did not get the bill in the manner she stated. O'Brien was taken before Commissioner Deuel and held to await examination.

SUMMARY OF LAW CASES. The Sheriff yesterday filed his return in the County Clerk's office to the execution against the property of William M. Tweed. He returns no good.

Judge Van Vorst gave a decision yesterday in the suit of William Meyer vs. Samuel Schiffer, brought to foreclose a mortgage for $50,000, the facts of which have been published in the HERALD. The decision allows the plaintiff to recover only the actual amount paid and interest, Albert Bowman, a member of Company A, Fifth regiment, N.G.S.N.Y., was yesterday brought before Judge Westbrook on a writ of habeas corpus, he having been imprisoned for non-payment of fines. His counses argued that, as the General commanding had not approved the finding of the court martial within fitteen days, the commitment was illegal, and the prisoner was therefore discharged.

Judge Westbrook gave a decision yesterday in the case of Matthias Ziegler. The point raised by Ziegler's counsel, Mr. B. F. Russell, was that the Special Sessions had no power to commit Ziegler, who pleaded guilty of making indecent photographs, for a longer period than three months, without stating in the commitment that he was over twenty-one years of age, the penalty being only three months for those under age. The Court took that view, and discharged Ziegler on his giving ball in $250, pending an appeal to the General Term.

Bernbardina Fink was arrested yesterday by a United States deputy marshai on a charge of conspiring to defrand the government. The prisoner is the widow of a soldier and draws a pension as such, and the offence charged against her is that the acted as a witness for Barbara Elisele, who was arrested on Monday for fraudulently drawing a pension, at the instigation, it is alleged, of Dr. Rudolph Wicczorek. Mrs. Fink is a well-to-do woman, who owns considerable property on Union Rill, and it is supposed that she acted in ignorance and without any criminal intent. She was admitted to basi in $1,000.

AMERICAN BOOK TRADE ASSOCIATION.

With the revival of business in general the book trade forms no exception and in anticipation of a brisk fall and holiday trade the American Book Trade Association has made arrangements to hold a book fair at Clinton Hail under the auspices of Messra, George A. Leavitt & Co., commencing on Monday, September 25, to continue during the balance of that week. The terms of the sale are a credit of four and six months, whereby the payments mature in January and March, 1877; thus the purchaser realizes from the holiday trade almost his ontire indebtedness. The following publishers have agreed to contribute their goods to the coming fair:
